The Installation of Vermont Beta

BY J. AUDREY CLARK

Vermont Beta

NOTHER local had its ambition realized and Sigma Phi Epsilon created another New England chapter when Sigma Phi Iota became Vermont Beta on May 16, 1925. That week-end with the wonderful ceremonies connected with the induction into the mysteries of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity will ever be remembered by the initiates and visiting brothers.

On Thursday evening Grand Secretary W. L. Phillips arrived from the sunny South and found to his dismay that it is well to carry an overcoat when traveling in the Green Mountain state. He seemed to be a good weather prophet for his first words were: "My, it's cold! But we'll make it warm enough over the week-end!"

Early Friday morning—very early, about 2:30 a. m.—the boys at the house were awakened to welcome the first delegation of visiting brothers when Griffis of Vermont Alpha and his associates walked in. And "walk" they had—for, some weary miles outside the fair town of Middlebury, their mode of transportation had played them false—had coughed and gently expired upon the highway! The boys tried all the next day to sell the car and it is rumored that in the end they had to pay someone to take it.

About noon the car bearing the Massachusetts Alpha delegates arrived. Brother Phillips was in charge of the installation and if the New Hampshire Alpha delegates arrived from Dartmouth in time he intended starting the ritualistic work promptly at 2 o'clock. Dinner, however, came before they did and finally the Norwich and Massachusetts Aggie teams were pressed into service. It was just at 3:15 that the first initiate was conducted through the ceremonies. The two teams worked until supper time when they declared a recess. A buffet supper was served at the chapter house and it was announced that the work would be continued at 10:30 p. m.

The reason for this extended interim was not to save the neophytes, but to permit the visiting brothers to acquaint themselves with the feminine species inhabiting the other side of the Hill. Fearing lest there be not enough to go around, Eddy Miller and Nels O'Rourke of New Hampshire Alpha telegraphed their reservations the night before. The Dartmouth men were determined to have dates for they hadn't seen any girls since their Easter vacation. The Massachusetts Aggie group condescended to look the local females over, for they are near enough to Mr. Holyoke to have interesting week-ends. The Norwich men were of the same frame of mind as the brothers from Hanover. However, dates were obtained for nearly all, singly and by wholesale lots from the women's dormitories. Everybody seemed satisfied except one portly youth from Dartmouth. "Jud" Whitehead had a tough number. She left him or he left her—the truth has never been disclosed—at an early hour, so "Jud" rambled around the town doing a little prospecting for himself. Suffice it to say that he managed to acquire a female companion a little more to his liking.

The ceremony of initiation was continued at 10:30 and by midnight all the active chapter had been admitted to the brotherhood of Sigma Phi Epsilon. Cass, captain of this year's track team, and two teammates, Curtis and Robinson, returned from the Amherst meet in time to be put through. The next morning the newly initiated members were called together and with the presentation of the charter by Brother Phillips to C. Vincent Grant, the new president of the chapter, Vermont Beta of Sigma Phi Epsilon, the fifty-second chapter of the fraternity, came into existence. At the first chapter meeting, held that afternoon, the newly installed brothers initiated one of the alumni under Brother Phillips' supervision. At that time also, a large plaque in the form of a shield bearing the Sigma Phi Epsilon coat of arms in bronze was presented to the chapter by Mr. James A. Clark, of Buffalo, New York, in token of his appreciation for hospitality accorded him on previous visits and his good wishes for Vermont Beta. Telegrams poured in from sister chapters expressing good wishes and a welcome into the fold.

Following the meeting everyone adjourned to whatever form of recreation suited each individual. Nearly everyone went out to Breadloaf Inn, which is a beautiful piece of property about twelve miles from Middlebury and which is owned by the college and used in the summer school.

Saturday evening the installation banquet was held at the Addison House, in town. There were over sixty brothers present. D. Haydn Parry, former president of the local Sigma Phi Iota, presided as toastmaster. Vincent Grant responded for Vermont Beta and pledged the earnest efforts of the chapter toward living up to the standard set by the other chapters. Grand Secretary Phillips spoke for the Grand Chapter and offered some sound advice. It was a pleasure and a privilege to have him with us. W. H. Savage spoke for New Hampshire Alpha, J. H. Cray for Vermont Alpha and H. S. Jenson on behalf of Massachusetts Alpha. It was the pleasure of the new chapter to have a former member back as a representative of New York Alpha. L. A. Wilson brought greetings from Syracuse and expressed his pleasure at being present when his old brothers attained their goal. The two men who were responsible largely for the granting of the charter to Vermont Beta were present and both spoke. They were former District Deputy A. W. Dodge, Massachusetts Alpha, '12, and Leone Smith, Massachusetts Alpha, '12. Brother Smith read the letter from the seven original members of Sigma Phi Iota which was the beginning of the step towards petitioning Sigma Phi Epsilon.

After the regular program of toasts several brothers were called on for impromptus. Dave King of New Hampshire Alpha was asked, "What Can a Red-Headed Mama Do?" in reporting the success of his date of the previous night. Then "Jud" Whitehead made his famous speech beginning: "Gosh, I've had a big meal!" with his rotund face beaming with satisfaction. A neat expression of gratitude came from Barrett Lyons of New Hampshire Alpha when he remarked: "With this chapter Sigma Phi Epsilon has fifty-two chapters, a complete deck of cards. We at Dartmouth have always considered ourselves the Ace of Spades, but after partaking of the hospitality of Vermont Beta, we can only say that she is the Ace of Hearts!"

Following the banquet everyone returned to the chapter house where cards and music were in order. Before retiring several of the brothers insisted on serenading the women's dormitories and four of them lined up to solemnly render the "Marseillaise" for the inmates of "La Maison Francaise."

The following men constitute the Vermont Beta Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon:

Alumni: D. Haydn Parry, Cleveland, Ohio; John H. White, Mineville, N. Y.; Everett S. Kinloch, Troy, N. Y.

HISTORY OF SIGMA PHI IOTA

In October, 1921, a group of seven men felt that there was material enough and need enough for a new fraternity at Middlebury. Under the guidance and with the advice of Leone Smith, Massachusetts Alpha, '12, who lives in Pittsford, Vt., these men founded Sigma Phi Iota on October 12, 1921. The Interfraternity Council admitted the fraternity to full standing among the Greek-letter societies of Middlebury on May 12, 1922.

In September, 1923, Sigma Phi Iota moved from its rooms in the Battell Block into a rented house on Main street formerly occupied by the Delta Upsilon fraternity. During the school year a project was started to own a home of its own, and having an opportunity offered to buy one of the best houses in town at a remarkably low figure, the members and the alumni raised enough money to secure it. The fraternity moved into its new home the beginning of the next school year. The property surrounding the new chapter house consists of nearly three acres of land, and the entire property is within a hundred yards of the college campus.

Throughout its formative stages Sigma Phi Iota adopted a policy which it held to during its active life—conservatism in the choice of men. Rather than to build a large organization the fraternity attempted to build a strong organization with the best available material.

Since its formation the fraternity has become steadily powerful on the campus and it is felt that with the prestige of Sigma Phi Epsilon behind it, the chapter can do even more. Since the founding of the fraternity two members of Athletic Council, one first and two second prizes in public speaking, the Wetherell Debating prize; seven members of the Middlebury Campus Board, two editorships of the "Campus," one editorship of the "Kaleidoscope," one business managership of "Campus," one business managership of "Kaleidoscope," two advertising managerships of the "Campus," four members of the "Blue and including the present year the fraternity has been represented in campus activities as follows: Two varsity football letter men, one baseball letter man, assistant manager of track, captain of track, five track men, one member who broke the college record for pole vaulting three times, one member who broke the college records in discus and javelin, senior representative on Student Council,

Baboon" board, one literary editorship of the Blue Baboon; six members of the Dramatic Club, two members of the Spanish Club; two members of Cercle Francaise, one member of Tau Kappa Alpha (debating), six members and president and treasurer of Phi Pi Epsilon (journalistic), three members and president of Kappa Phi Kappa (pedagogical), two members of the Glee Club, one basketball letter man, one cross country letter man, hand-ball championship, three members of junior week committees, secretaryship of interfraternity council, six members of the Sage Society, seven members of the Delta Tau Society, sports editor of the "Campus," and two members of the Press Club.

The local was fortunate to obtain the interest of District Deputy A. W. Dodge, Massachusetts Alpha, '12, the northern and southern boundaries of the state of Vermont. The college campus, comprising 244 acres, commands a surpassing mountain view, the Adirondacks across Lake Champlain to the west and on the east a wide sweep of the Green Mountains, much of which is within the 30,000 acre forest preserve belonging to the college. The college campus is in four sections. The "old campus" of thirty who worked unceasingly to gain a charter from the Grand Chapter. The visits of Traveling Secretary Bob Edwards and Grand Secretary Phillips proved to be of much profit to the fraternity.

MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE

Middlebury College is situated in a village of about 2,000 in the Champlain Valley and equi distance from acres contains the main buildings and residences for men; the Battell campus is reserved for buildings for women; Porter field of eighty acres comprises the athletic grounds; a fourth section borders the Otter River for a considerable distance.

The college plant includes sixteen permanent buildings, besides cottages, professors' houses and smaller structures. The three oldest buildings are of gray limestone, colonial in architecture. Vermont white marble has been used in most of the more recent structures. The latest buildings are a large Maison Francaise, modeled after a French chateau and erected at a cost of $250,000, the Porter Hospital, and a new music house. The college also has a playhouse in which all the Dramatic Club productions are rehearsed and produced.

The undergraduate association composed of all men students in the college, is the governing body in student affairs. Its executive committee, the student council, are the official representatives of the student body in presenting petition to the faculty. The authority of the undergraduate association extends over student activities.

More students are taking up organized athletics now than at any previous stage. During the past ten years Middlebury has held the state championship in football seven times. Until four years ago she held the Vermont intercollegiate championship for four successive years. During the football season of 1923 Middlebury made herself famous by holding the big Crimson eleven 6-6 in the Harvard stadium before a crowd of 35,000. During the season of 1924 she lost but one game and that was to Harvard. On the 1925 schedule are Yale and Harvard in two successive weeks. This is no small order.

Seven national fraternities have been established at Middlebury in the following order: Chi Psi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Delta Upsilon, Kappa Delta Rho, Beta Kappa, Sigma Phi Epsilon and Alpha Sigma Phi. There are no locals on the campus.

Senator Frank B. Willis Addresses Many Sig Eps

SENATOR Frank B. Willis, Ohio Alpha, was the principal speaker at the Chicago Alumni banquet of Ohio Northern University at the City Club in Chicago, June 21, at which a good sized attendance greeted him, one-fourth of which was composed of Sig Eps. In view of Senator Willis' fraternity affiliations the Ohio Northern alumni extended an invitation to the Chicago alumni chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon to attend the banquet, which was accepted by a large share of our members.

Senator Willis, who is an alumnus of and former professor at Ohio Northern, was on his way to St. Paul where he appeared as the principal speaker at the Kiwanis international convention. It will be recalled that it was Willis who placed the name of President Harding in nomination before the republican convention in 1920 and as an orator he has the reputation of having few equals.

His address at the Chicago banquet, of an informal character, met with enthusiastic approval. Much of his talk related to his college days and his tenure as a professor at Ohio Northern. There were many in the audience who had attended his classes and he remembered them all by their first names.

The Senator has consented to address a joint meeting of the Kiwanis club, Lions club and Chicago alumni chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon at a date later to be fixed. He is a member of all of these organizations.

Noted Sig Ep Father Receives Final Summons

BY GRAHAM FLY
D. C. Alpha

DURING the past summer death claimed an internationally known Sig Ep father.

Casting a pall of sorrow over members of the fraternity was the announcement on the morning of June 22 of the passing of Senator Edwin Freemont Ladd of North Dakota.

Senator Ladd, one of the leaders of that indefatigable group in the United States senate headed by the late Robert M. La Follette, was the father of Brother D. Milton Ladd, District of Columbia Alpha, a member of the fraternity since February, 1922, and was, incidentally, himself a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

Shortly after the close of the spring semester at George Washington, Senator and Mrs. Ladd and members of their family left Washington for an automobile trip to the Ladd home at Fargo, N. D., where they were to spend the summer months.

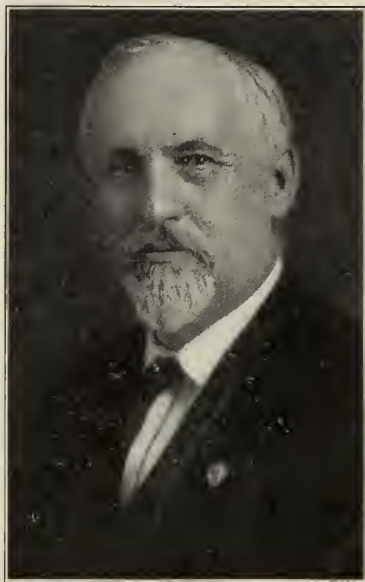

At Cleveland, where the party stopped for a visit, Senator Ladd suffered an attack of neuritis. Although his condition was not at first regarded as serious, specialists advised his return East. A few days later the senator entered Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore for treatment.

Senator Ladd's malady spread, rendering virtually useless his left arm and leg. Attending physicians were not, however, immediately alarmed at the developments.

Several days after entering the hospital new complications were noted and from June 19 to 22 Senator Ladd sank very rapidly. All hope for his recovery was given up early in the morning of the 22nd and Mrs. Ladd was summoned to Baltimore by the hospital authorities.

Mrs. Ladd and Milton arrived in Baltimore a few hours before the death of the senator to remain at his bedside during the final hours of a remarkable life.

SENATOR EDWIN FREEMONT LADD

SENATOR Ladd, a scientist and educator of note, was born December 13, 1859, in Starks, Maine. Receiving his early education in the public schools of Starks, he entered Somerset Academy at Athens, Maine, and in the Fall of 1880 was matriculated at the University of Maine. Here he became a member of Q. T. V. Society and when it was later chartered by Phi Gamma Delta he returned to be initiated as a "Fiji."

He graduated from Maine with the degree of Bachelor of Science in 1884. From the same University he received his Doctor of Laws degree in 1915.

From 1884 to 1890 Senator Ladd was chemist of the New York State Experiment Station at Geneva. He resigned from that position to become a professor of chemistry at the North Dakota Agricultural College and chemist of the Experiment Station at Fargo.

The years from 1890 to 1920 found Senator Ladd as an educator and scientist. For five years he was president of the North Dakota Agricultural College. During the thirty years he likewise held a number of very important state and federal government positions, preparing him for his final work as a leader of farm development legislation in the United States senate.

Senator Ladd was food commissioner for North Dakota and head of the regulatory department for twenty years. During the World War he was a federal food commissioner.

Recognition of Senator Ladd's ability in this connection was disclosed by the fact that he was called to London early in 1920 to assist the British government in drawing up similar laws to govern production throughout England.

Laws adopted by the British government coincided in virtually all particulars with the North Dakota laws—a distinct tribute to Senator Ladd.

The Senator contributed greatly to the cause of agricultural progress in his editing and publication of The North Dakota Farmer and The Sanitary Home. In spite of all these activities he found time to write voluminous reports, bulletins, scientific papers and addresses. His contributions to the advance of scientific and agricultural research are a standing monument to his memory.

SENATOR Ladd was elected to the United States Senate from North Dakota November 2, 1920. He ran as a republican with non-partisan endorsement, having defeated the independent candidate by a majority vote of 43,032.

Members of the fraternity are familiar with the brilliant record of Senator Ladd while serving on the four senate committees—Agriculture and Forestry, Indian Affairs, Public Lands and Surveys and Territories and Insular Possessions. His work on the floor of the senate was indeed noteworthy.

In the summer of 1923 Senator Ladd performed a distinct service as head of the unofficial congressional committee sent to Russia by William Randolph Hearst. This committee made a far-reaching study of economic and social conditions in Russia.

Among other members of this committee was George L. Bowen, then an active member of District of Columbia Alpha. He acted as secretary. JOURNAL readers will recall his graphic account of the trip which appeared in the September, 1923, issue of this publication.

In the passing of Senator Ladd, George Washington Sig Eps have lost a true and beloved friend. With Mrs. Ladd, the Senator frequently visited the chapter house.

Surviving Senator Ladd, besides Mrs. Ladd, are three sons and five daughters, Culver of Fargo, Vernon of Cleveland, Milton of Washington, Katherine, Rizpah and Rosilla of Wisconsin and Elizabeth and Virginia of Washington.

Many members of District of Columbia Alpha attended the funeral services and burial, which were held in Washington.

Dippold Leads In Fight to Protect Fraternities From Klan Legislation

DETERMINED EFFORT TO COMPEL PUBLICITY OF SECRET ORGANIZATION
OATHS—DIPPOLD SECURES EXEMPTION OF GREEK LETTER SOCIETIES

THE appreciation of Greek letter people in Illinois is due Grand Vice President Albert P. Dippold for his work in securing the exemption of fraternities and sororities from the provisions of an anti-Klan bill in the Illinois legislature. It is probable that Dippold's early work led to centering such interest in the bill that upon the final reading it was defeated by a narrow margin.

The bill, which was introduced by Chicago's brilliant negro representative, William E. King, required all oath-bound organizations, except labor unions and benevolent societies, to file with the secretary of state lists of membership, a copy of their constitution and by-laws and the prescribed oath.

Dippold first learned of the pending bill in May when he read of its advancement to third reading. Perceiving its application to fraternities and sororities Dippold immediately took up the work of protecting the interests of these organizations, and removing them from consideration with the Klan. He took the matter up with several representatives and senators with whom he was personally acquainted and with whom he could establish some connections through friends. He got in touch with Arthur H. Gottschalk, Illinois Alpha, who took an active part in the lobby of the legislature.

Dippold also brought the matter to the attention of the Interfraternity Association in Chicago and that body used such influence as could be summoned. It was not long, as a result, before sufficient senators and representatives were pledged to accept an amendment excluding from the purview of the proposed law the college societies. Eventually action was taken in the legislature to include with the labor unions and benevolent orders excepted from consideration in the bill "a college or school fraternity or sorority" and from that point on Greek letter people ceased to worry.

The bill died a dramatic death upon the final roll call. Under the leadership of Representative David R. Shanahan, four times a speaker of the house and a Roman Catholic who came to the legislature from a long-continued illness to speak against the bill, the measure was defeated. Demanding its defeat that the Klan be not dignified by legislative attention but allowed to pass with time the dean of the legislature mustered enough votes to defeat the bill with a vote of fifty-three for and sixty-three against. Seventy-seven votes were required to pass it.

It is to Dippold's credit that he was the first to notice the bill and its application to the fraternities. It was due to his vigorous efforts in the early stages of the bill's history that Greek letter interests were protected. Laying aside all other work for the time Dippold besieged his legislative friends with letters, wired various fraternity men of his acquaintance urging their co-operation and for a few days conducted a veritable publicity campaign.

Doss Richerson, Missouri Alpha's Weight Genius, Attains Captaincy

By JAMES T. HAGUE
Missouri Alpha

THIS is the story of Richerson. His full name is W. J. Doss Richerson. Doss is neither handsome nor exceptionally brilliant but in his birthday clothes he tips the beam at 220 pounds and, standing erect, his altitude is about six feet two inches. Men like him grow in Texas. They also thrive in Missouri.

W. J. DOSS RICHERSON

Doss was born at Cleburn, Texas, May 24, 1901. A few years later he started heaving the discus, continually improving until in his junior year in high school when he shattered all existing State of Texas high school records with a throw of 125 feet nine inches at the state meet held in Austin. One year later at the state meet he broke his own record with a throw of 139 feet five inches. That record still stands in the state of Texas. In addition to his track activities in high school, Doss played regular at guard position for four years, being a member of the team that annexed state championship honors in 1920. So much for his pre-college training.

As a freshman at the University of Missouri, Doss was hailed as a sure valley champion. At the A. A. U. meet held in Chicago in September, 1922, Doss placed third in the discus. He then turned toward freshman football and easily earned the right to his regular position, giving the varsity no little worry in the daily scrimmage. After the football season closed, Doss decided to test his ability as a shot-putter and on the very first trial pushed the 16-pound ball out 41 feet. His discus record his freshman year was 142 feet.

It was in the winter of 1924 that Doss really started to annex weight honors. In the Missouri-Kansas indoor meet at Convention Hall in Kansas City, Doss threw the shot forty-five feet six and one-half inches to break the record formerly held by Bradley of Kansas. At the Illinois relays a short time later, Doss was slated for a first but in the preliminaries he pulled a side tendon but managed third place even then. One week later Doss managed first at the Missouri Valley indoor meet. Next came the Penn relays at Philadelphia where Doss let himself out in the first outdoor meet of the year and threw the discus 140 feet nine and one-quarter inches, thereby taking first. Richerson's heave was not a meet record but so near it that his distance has been bettered only twice in the twenty-four years that the discus has been thrown at Penn. It will be remembered that he bettered this throw by more than a foot while a freshman, and a few weeks later at the Missouri-Kansas dual meet held in Columbia, Richerson really extended, throwing the discus 146 feet ten inches. That to date is his best throw but he may even better that next year. To top off the 1924 season let us say right here that he won first place in both the shot and discus in every meet in 1924.

Next came the Olympic tryouts. In these he got as far as Boston where the competition was just a little too keen. Doss placed seventh in the shot and eighth in the discus, competing with the very best men in the country. Doss was keenly disappointed that he did not make the Olympic squad but then there were many others that failed at the very last.

The 1925 season was just a little less brilliant for Richerson but in this year he also managed first place in both shot and discus in every meet with a valley school. He broke the indoor shot record and the discus throw for the second time in two years. He was sent to Texas early this spring to the Texas relays and to the Rice Institute meet where he also annexed all weight honors, bettering the previous southwest records in both meets. With a track record unparalleled in Missouri Valley history and with a following wherever cinder path critics hold forth, Doss has established a reputation that will probably last for some years to come.

In recognition of his point-gaining ability the Missouri track squad has elected him to pilot them for the coming year. This honor gives Missouri Alpha the captaincy of two of the four major sports of Missouri and makes a total of five captains of Missouri sports being members of Missouri Alpha at the same time: Richerson, track; Smith, football; Glenn Smith, freshman football; Vallet, cross country and McQueen, baseball.

In addition to his ability as a weight man, Doss has played two years at regular guard position in football, the past season being his best, for not only was he called upon to play his regular position well but he also was used as a punter, doing most of the kicking for Missouri throughout the year.

Clarence C. Little, former president of the University of Maine, has become the president of the University of Michigan. He, like President Frank of Wisconsin, is one of the younger generation of college executives, being but thirty-seven years of age.

Dauber, Iowa Gamma, Next Year's Hawkeye Track Pilot

BY PHILLIP F. WALKER

Iowa Gamma

HE unanimous selection for captaincy of next year's "Hawkeye" track team is the climax of a busy season for Ray G. Dauber, Iowa Gamma's track and football ace. Ray, better known as "Dutch," has been one of Coach Bresnahan's mainstays for the past season and his election was well earned and well deserved.

Dauber's special event is the sixteen pound shot, which he has put 46 feet $\frac{3}{4}$ inch, for the University of Iowa record. His slate for the past year gives him first place in nine out of twelve outdoor meets, the exceptions being a second in the Big Ten meet, a third at the Illinois relays and a third at the Drake relays.

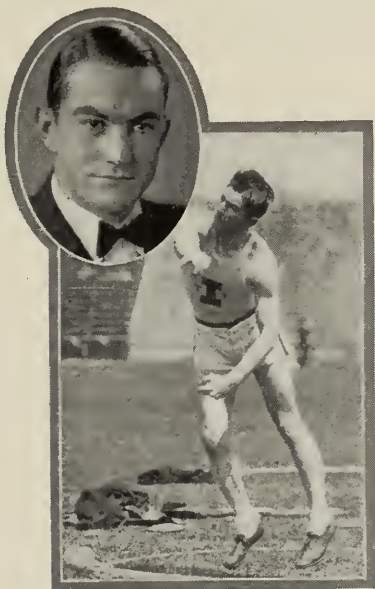

Schwarze, the Wisconsin giant, was his only serious rival in the Big Ten, although he beat him on one occasion, the Wisconsin-Iowa dual. That he is a consistent performer is shown by the fact that all of his outdoor marks in competition have been within a few inches of his record.

At the Ohio State relays in Columbus, he was Iowa's sole entrant, returning with a new relay record and a gold watch for his efforts. The old record, held by Gross of Minnesota, was broken by $4\frac{1}{2}$ feet. In the triathlon, composed of the shot-put, discus and javelin throw, he gained enough points in the shot and discus alone to win fourth place, not attempting the javelin because of a strained shoulder.

In the annual university all-around, in which entrants do all events in a single day, Dauber showed his versatility by hanging up the following marks: High jump five feet ten inches; high hurdles, sixteen and three-tenths seconds; broad jump twenty-one feet one and one-half inches; pole vault, eleven feet; shot-put, forty-six feet two inches; discus throw, 125 feet; javelin 155 feet.

In the fall, Dauber is quite as formidable a man in the moleskins as he is on the track and in the field. The 1925 season will be his third year as a regular right half-back on the Iowa squad. As he has played in nearly every game for the past two years and is one of the few returning veterans for this year, he will be a very valuable man for Coach Ingwerson's new machine.

Dauber's athletic days began in the Estherville, Iowa, high school, where his four years of football, basketball and track helped to make him of Big Ten caliber. He has held twelve high school records throughout the state in various events, four of which are standing today. As a freshman at the university, he was elected captain of the freshman track team and took fourth in the shot-put at the national A. A. U. meet held in Chicago.

Besides working hard to make himself a six letter man, Ray has maintained close to a three-point average in scholarship, has served as president of the sophomore liberal arts class, is a member of the Memorial Union staff and several other campus organizations.

Pennsylvania Delta Boasts Of Its "Four Horsemen"

HORSES" at Pennsylvania are rare since there are but some thirty-five in the entire senior class of eighteen hundred men.

This coined expression is used to denote honorary senior society men, of which Penn Delta has a healthy double-brace. And when it is considered that four out of seven seniors in our Pennsylvania chapter are "hat men," as they are termed, that runs the batting average up to exactly .571, which, it must be admitted, is heavy hitting.

Senior societies at Pennsylvania, as generally elsewhere, confer election primarily upon men for service rendered the university although college activities and personality are points considered. And the societies, Sphinx and Friars, rule the campus.

For the past ten years or more Pennsylvania Delta has boasted of two or three senior society men but in the election this year of Jerome O. Evaul, Clarence B. Litchfield, John Hiram McKee and Paul Wilson, that chapter for the first time enjoys the prestige of having four members in the honor organizations.

Evaul and Wilson are Friars; Litchfield and McKee members of Sphinx. Evaul earned his place in Friars with his work as associate manager of Penn's basketball team as well as being in charge of the interscholastic tournament. He is on the student governing body, the "Twelve Disciples," the Undergraduate Council, and represents the latter on the Council of Athletics. Wilson is captain of the university swimming team, business manager of the "Red and Blue," member of "The Class Record" board and seated on the Franklin Society. He is a senior proctor in the freshman dorms this year where he will room with Jerome Evaul.

Litchfield, as the new editor of the famous "Punch Bowl"—a Penn Delta legacy, by the way—could not be kept off of a senior society. He is an artist. As one brother said of him, "He draws—girls, crowds, mosquitoes and funny pictures." Besides his editorship of the "Punch Bowl" he is a member of the art staffs of the "Red and Blue," campus literary and activities monthly, "The Class Record," Pennsylvania's annual, and the "Pennsylvania Triangle," the journal of the university scientific departments. He is, in addition, president of the Franklin Society, the organization that controls all campus publications.

Litchfield's running mate in Sphinx, McKee, is the 1926 manager of freshmen baseball and a member of the business boards of the "Punch Bowl" and the "Red and Blue." He is a member of Phi Kappa Beta, junior society, as well.

And where do they all hail from? That is always of interest. Well, Evaul hails from Evaul Heights, N. J. you get the connection? Wilson is from Greenport, N. Y., at the eastern end of Long Island—whence the costume and surroundings shown in the picture accompanying this article. Litchfield has migrated a long ways from home to go to "collech," Mitchell, S. D., on the alkali plains (ask any easterner) being his home town. McKee is from Richmond, "Virginny,"—which, we suggest, should be renamed "Phillipstown" in recognition of one or two considerations familiar to all Sig Eps.

Nebraska Alpha Man Wins State Golf Championship

T was due Dr. Eugene M. Slattery, Nebraska Alpha, that he win the Nebraska State Golf Championship this fall. He had lost it in the finals by a fluke the preceding year. He had won all the other golf honors that were available in his state. And, above all, he was the steadiest and most skillful of the record field of participants that went into this year's competition for Nebraska golf honors.

Curiously enough, Slattery met in the finals a former champion, Jack Hughes, for whom Slattery had caddied several years before at the time he won that championship. As a caddie he had followed his principal with admiration for his skill. But on the occasion last July when the two met as competitors for the championship of the state it was Hughes who of necessity became the admirer for Slattery took charge of the match from the beginning and won with ease.

As many another good golfer, Slattery learned his golfing as a caddie on the links of his home town, Omaha, Nebr. By the time he matriculated at the University of Nebraska, where he graduated in dentistry, he was a most skillful golfer and for the time of his college course he remained the city champion of Lincoln, Nebr., where the university is located.

Following his graduation a couple of years ago, Dr. Slattery opened a dental office in Omaha in the Acquilla Court—one of the handsomest and best equipped dental offices in that city. Then he proceeded to acquire a dental practice by means of careful dental work combined with judicious golfing. The latter soon made him known to everyone in his city interested in golf. Many local clubs offered him free membership as a means of enlisting his golf talents—a tribute to his game on the links.

Last year in the state golf tournament, playing the same brilliant game that this year won for him the championship, he went into the finals in competition with another young but talented golfer. He was eliminated by one stroke on the last hole after his opponent had taken advantage of him on a situation that for a considerable time engaged the attention of sports editors and authorities on rule technicalities. This year he met the same man in the semi-finals and put him out by a decisive score.

Slattery is a member of Xi Psi Phi, dental fraternity, and an active participant in the affairs of the Aksarben Alumni Chapter of Omaha. He is unmarried—but perhaps that has been inferred from the fact he has the time to keep in championship golf form.

Track Meet Captured By Delaware Alpha Team

ELAWARE Alpha chapter was unusually successful last spring in its ventures into track and field athletics.

At the University of Delaware each year, on interscholastic day, there is an interfraternity relay race. This year Delaware Alpha won this event, and have a handsome loving cup as evidence for the future generations. In this annual half-mile relay no letter men, or even men who have earned points in track, are permitted to take part. Consequently, the might-have-beens are forced out for a bit of training. The Sig Ep team was composed of Moyer and Reybold, freshmen, Barkley, a junior, and Tilghman, a senior. They ran in the order named.

Running well after getting a poor start, Moyer finished the first lap in third place. Reybold, running second, gained a bit and started Barkley, the third member of the team, off with only one of the seven other runners ahead of him. Barkley held this position and Tilghman, the Sig Ep anchor, started the last lap ten yards behind the Sigma Nu anchor man. However, Tilghman gradually gained on the leading runner and, during the last hundred yards, passed his opponent and finished well to the front. The time was one minute and forty-three seconds.

Again later in the season, the Delaware Alpha men won another cup, a large banner, and a collection of gold, silver, and bronze medals. This happened at an independent track and field meet, sponsored on Memorial Day by the New Castle Post No. 4 of the American Legion. A Sig Ep relay team, composed of Tremaine, Reybold, Barkley, and Skewis, won the mile relay and were awarded a large loving cup. Then the Sig Ep team took forty of the possible ninety points and won the meet. For this they were presented with a banner done in the colors of the fraternity.

The Sig Ep winners were: 100-yard dash, Weggenmann, second, Tilghman, third. 220-yard dash, Tilghman, second. 440-yard dash, McKelvie, second. One mile run, Skewis, first; Tremaine, second. Shot put, McKelvie, first; Kramer, second; Elliott, third. Pole vault, Lohman, second.

Kramer, Delaware Alpha, Captains Two Major Sports

BY J. FRANCIS NEIDE
Delaware Alpha

LEWIS H. Kramer, Delaware Alpha, was unanimously elected last fall to be captain of University of Delaware's football team for the 1925 season. Kramer's selection as captain of Delaware's gridiron team was a popular one with the student body of Delaware. Kramer makes the sixth Sig Ep in the past seven years to be captain of a Delaware football team.

During Kramer's three seasons of football at Delaware, he has played the positions of guard, tackle, and center. His defensive work at center last year terrorized the opposing teams. He is handicapped with an injured knee and back, enough to keep an ordinary man out of the game entirely.

In addition to having three football letters, Kramer has also made his letter in track and is captain-elect of track for next spring. He is a member of the Druids and of the Derelicts, honorary fraternities, and of the Varsity Club. He was selected for last year's second All-Sig Ep football team. He weighs 190 pounds and is six feet four inches in height.

Glenn Frank, for the past four years editor of Century, this month assumes the presidency of the University of Wisconsin at the age of thirty-eight. Albert E. Wiggam, noted biologist, writer and lecturer, has said of Mr. Frank that his career will be one of the outstanding incidents of the present generation. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta.

Brown, Tennessee Alpha, Best All-Around Tennessee Athlete

FRED "Bo" Brown, Tennessee Alpha, was selected as the athlete to receive the Porter Cup for the year '24-'25. Each year this cup is given to the athlete who, in the opinion of the coaches and the athletic council, is the best all-round athlete in the university. He was chosen because of his ability to play in almost any position on the football team, because of his consistent fighting as a guard on the basketball floor and because of his hitting and fielding ability in baseball.

Brown will enter school as a senior next fall. He has played football for three years, standing out as the star in almost all the games. During his freshman year he played as an end, showing unusual consistency in receiving passes and in tackling. In his sophomore year he was shifted to the backfield and proved to be one of the hardest hitting backs in the conference. Because of a rather weak line in the '24 team, Bo shifted back to the end position, and later gave up all the honors that come to an end and moved into the middle of the line to play guard. He played there with his usual fight, and won many friends through his willingness to play where he could help the team most, although he could not stand out in the limelight. He was picked as one of the ends on the All-Sig Ep football eleven for the 1924 season.

Although football is probably his best game, Brown is a very strong man on the baseball team. He played in the center garden and whirled a wicked stick, finishing third in batting percentages.

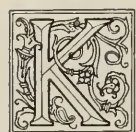

Athletics are not his only activities in the university. He is very popular among the students, who have elected him to one of the highest positions that they have the power to, secretary of the All-Students' Club. That he is popular among the students was again brought out when he was elected by them as one of two student members of the Athletic Council. Besides these, he is a member of several honorary societies and fraternities.

Kansas Gamma Wins All-Year Trophy At Kansas University

ANSAS Gamma, competing with all other organizations upon the Kansas University campus, won the loving cup offered by the Kansas University Athletic Association to the winner of a program of athletics that continued throughout the college year. The sports designated for intra-mural competition were fall track, fall tennis, basketball, wrestling, swimming, handball, softball, spring tennis, spring track and horseshoes.

Kansas Gamma, in this all-year competition, accumulated a total of 515 points as against 414 won by Sigma Chi, their nearest competitor, and 400 won by Delta Tau Delta. The Kansas Sig Eps placed in every sport. They won first place in fall tennis and spring track and second place in fall track, wrestling and horseshoes.

The beautiful twenty-inch cup which now adorns the Kansas Gamma mantle was won as the result of the participation in the competition of every man in the chapter. Even the entire pledge group took part. In addition to the large trophy the chapter received smaller cups for the first and second places taken in individual sports.

During the past five years Tennessee Alpha has been winning the prize at the annual U. T. circus, for having the best clown. This year Dan Hughes of that chapter won the prize, representing a lad fresh from the open country "where a man's a man for au' that!" He won enough clothes to go home to his country place as the best dressed man in the university. He claims that he dressed as they dress in his home town, which is situated on the Tennessee river, about thirty miles from a railroad. His face was a cloud of freckles and his teeth were stained from lack of care. He wore a winged collar with a bright red and white striped tie and a shirt with an abundance of big red dots. It was hard to say whether he had on short long trousers, or long short pants. At any rate they fit him like a hide fits a cow in his home town. His coat was of a different color than his trousers, and very small.

Barker, New York Beta, Captains The Sewanee Tigers This Fall

BY E. H. QUALLS

Tennessee Alpha

DOWN on the mountain at Sewanee, Tenn., George Barker is helping prove the adage that "a Sig Ep is a Sig Ep where'er he goes and you can't keep him down." Here's how George is proving it.

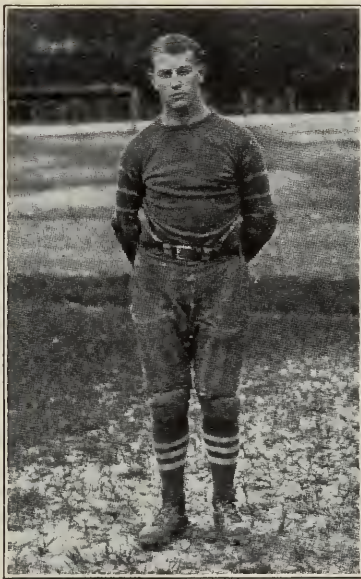

Following their 16 to 0 victory over Vanderbilt on Thanksgiving day, the Sewanee football team elected George Zane Barker captain for the following year. Barker had already earned for himself the title of "brainiest quarter Sewanee ever had" but the Vanderbilt game showed him to be one of the best quarterbacks in the south. Sewanee beat Vanderbilt on passes and George was the main cog in the passing machine.

Following the Sewanee-South Carolina game, which Sewanee won, one South Carolina paper was loud in its praise of Barker and dubbed him "Barker the Superb."

He has played quarter on the Tiger team for the past two years. He also played quarter in 1922 on the first freshman team Sewanee ever had.

Beside being captain of the football team, most popular man in school, and idol of the entire mountain, Barker has won many more honors. He is a three letter man, having won two in basketball and two in golf. He was president of the sophomore class in 1923-24 and proctor of Magnolia Hall in 1924-25. He is a member of the Varsity Club.

GEORGE Z. BARKER
NEW YORK BETA

Barker, whose home is Chattanooga, Tenn., entered Cornell in the fall of 1921. He only stayed a few months but was initiated into Sigma Phi Epsilon by New York Beta while there. He takes as much or more interest in his fraternity as most active members do. He is a frequent visitor at the home of Tennessee Alpha and that chapter regards him as their own.

The southern conference teams had better watch Captain Barker and his Tigers this fall.

The Alpha Phi Quarterly has offered prizes aggregating $100.00 for the best poetry submitted by an Alpha Phi. The awards will be made at the national convention of the sorority next spring.

Colorado Gamma, Champions In Basketball and Football

HE outstanding achievements of Colorado Gamma on the campus of the Colorado Agricultural College during the year 1924-25 were the winning of two of the major sport championships in intra-mural competition, and placing third in scholarship ratings among the nine fraternities in the school.

The first championship won this year was in basketball. The chapter went through the season without losing a game, defeating all of their opponents in a decisive manner. The toughest game of the year was the final game of the season for the championship with Alpha Tau Omega in which extra time was required to decide the winner of this contest.

In the baseball tournament the fraternity retained the big silver loving cup won last year. It will only be necessary to win the trophy again next year for it to become the permanent property of Sigma Phi Epsilon and be placed along side of the other prizes won in competition with the remaining fraternities at Colorado Aggies.

However important athletics may be, scholarship is, nevertheless, the more essential thing. The chapter is proud of its high position in the fraternity ratings, only one or two points separating it from the leaders.

Gayle V. Grubb Takes The Air At Station KFAB

“THIS is station KFAB, Nebraska Buick Auto Company at Lincoln, Nebraska,—”

If you are a radio enthusiast and live between the Alleghanies and the Rockies you may have, on many occasions, heard these words from the lips of Gayle V. Grubb, Nebraska Alpha. Furthermore, you may have heard some of the tinkling tunes that this talented announcer so frequently runs off on the KFAB studio Mason and Hamlin.

If you have been denied the pleasure of listening in on this Sig Ep announcer be advised that his station is on the air every evening except Thursday from six until seven o'clock; on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from seven-thirty until nine-thirty and at mid-afternoon on Thursday and Sunday. KFAB broadcasts at 340.7 meters using 500 watts.

Gayle Grubb is a snappy, decisive announcer. But more than that he is, as his friends claim, the champion middle-weight catch-as-catch-can piano player of the syncopated school. He will be remembered to Sig Eps as one of the Southern Rag-a-Jazz band, composed chiefly of members of this fraternity, that four or five years ago went to Paris and to London where they carried dance circles by storm. Newspapers and dancing reviews in London at the time frankly stated that the Rag-a-Jazz organization surpassed any other orchestra that had ever invaded England. Indeed, it was so popular that upon returning after their first year in London offers were cabled for their return that again took them back to dear Ol' Lunnnon for another season.

It was Grubb who headed this organization, presiding at the piano. He had organized and piloted the organization during his college course at the University of Nebraska. He had, and has, a style of syncopation all of his own. If you doubt it, tune in on KFAB and be convinced. Catch him when he is feeling in the proper mood to worry the piano and you'll seldom hear such dazzling breaks and curious syncopations as he tosses on the air from KFAB.

Grubb is unusually versatile, starring in many lines. He left a splendid record behind him when he graduated in 1920 from Nebraska. He plays upon a typewriter with fully as humorous effect as he does upon a piano and his editorship of Awgwan, the Nebraska comic magazine, was most brilliant. Numbers of his comic quips from Augwan found their way into the comic pages of the Literary Digest and similar magazines, to say nothing of college comics. He is a ready versifier and for a year conducted a humorous column in rhyme in the Daily Nebraskan. He was also a skillful basketball player.

GAYLE V. GRUBB

He has composed and written the lyrics for many musical numbers that have had a ready sale. Chief among these is his song "My Gal Melinda," many thousands of which have been absorbed by the song loving public. At the KFAB studio he very frequently plays his own compositions, sometimes with the aid of another singer, rendering them in duet form.

Don Elliott, Co-Holder Nebraska Tennis Doubles Championship

ON Elliott, Nebraska Alpha, 1923 tennis champion of Nebraska, yoked with Gregg McBride, a well known sports writer in the middle west, reign as doubles champions of Nebraska by virtue of their decisive victory over all other doubles contenders in the Nebraska state tennis meet held at Lincoln, Nebr., in the first days of August. In addition, Elliott was runner up for the singles championship and came within an ace of reclaiming the title which he held two years ago.

No severe competition was afforded Elliott and his teammate in the doubles competition and they loped through the field for an easy win. Elliott's elimination from the singles championship, however, was worthy of note.

The championship match was a replica of the finals played the previous year. Elliott had gone to the finals only to be defeated by a player named Mahood. Again this year the competition was narrowed to these two. Elliott played brilliantly and took the first set 6-1. He continued the pace, Mahood having no chance during the second set which Elliott won 6-2. The play went into the third set and under the terrific heat of the day Elliott began to weaken. He played the third set 4-4 when Mahood forged ahead taking the set 6-4 and the two following sets 7-5 and 6-0. The play during the previous year had gone exactly the same, Elliott taking the first two sets with ease but losing the last three. Last year, too, on the day of the finals the heat became so oppressive that only the best of condition could weather it.

While Elliott and McBride were winning the senior doubles Elliott's younger brother James Elliott and another lad, both high school students, were winning the junior championship.

The Sigma Chi Quarterly has ceased to exist. It is now the Magazine of Sigma Chi with five issues a year instead of four. It is one of the leaders in the fraternity publication field.

Occasionally information comes to light of women initiated by various fraternities—nearly always many years ago. No such incident has ever been reported in this fraternity. It is unlikely that it will.

Keegin, New Hampshire Alpha, At International Opium Conference

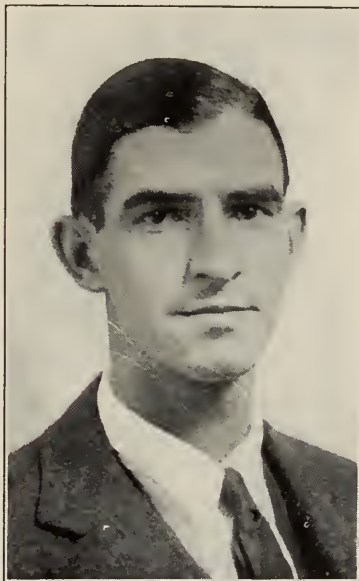

Warren Keegin, New Hampshire Alpha, is the possessor of a most valuable experience as the result of having acted as one of the secretaries to the commission representing the United States at the international opium conference held at Geneva, Switzerland, under the auspices of the League of Nations. Keegin took advantage of a month's adjournment during the course of the conference to see something of Italy after having passed through France on the way to Geneva.

The commission which left the United States November 1, 1924, was composed of Congressman Stephen G. Porter, chairman; Bishop Charles H. Brent, Episcopal Bishop of Western New York; former Surgeon General Rupert Blue, Edwin L. Neville of the State Department and now first secretary of the embassy at Peking, and Mrs. Hamilton Wright.

Arriving at Cherbourg, France, while two members of the party went to London for a conference with some members of the English cabinet, the others remained in Paris for a week before proceeding to Geneva. While in Paris Keegin utilized the time to see something of French life.

"I tasted the French food, and enjoyed it," he said. "I tasted the French wines and enjoyed them. I saw the French women—and was disappointed in them." He was of the opinion that the designation "the little French girl" is a misrepresentation—at least of the size of any French women he saw.

Upon arriving at Geneva his duties began and he was kept so busy that he had little time to see much of Switzerland although he was fortunate in being there for the celebration known as "L'Escalade." This is the anniversary of the last repulse of the Savoyards from the city of Geneva and an entire week is set aside for the celebration known as "L'Escalade." This is the anniversary of the last repulse of the Savoyards from the city of Geneva and an entire week is set aside for the celebration which is not dissimilar to our Hallowe'en. Every one is in costume and there are balls every night terminating with several huge ones on the last night. Keegin was one of those who managed to utilize his nights in helping the Swiss celebrate.

S. WARWICK KEEGAN
NEW HAMPSHIRE ALPHA

THE conference after deliberations of about a month came to a deadlock and ostensibly for a vacation, but in reality to work out a compromise, if possible. The conference was adjourned on December 15th until January 12th. During this adjournment Keegin went to Italy. Genoa was his first stop, then Rome. In the latter place the celebration of Santo Anno, Holy Year, was in progress, a festivity occurring once every twenty-five years and bringing pilgrims from all parts of the world. The Coliseum, Forum, and Capitoline, Palatine and other hills as well as the catacombs were visited by Keegin in the week he was in that city. Then he went to Naples.

Naples, with its filth, proved to be almost too much for him. While there, however, he went out to Vesuvius. Descending into the crater of this famous volcano the party of which he was a member was advised by the guide to look up through the smoke and fumes in order to dodge any falling piece of lava. Just as he spoke a large piece of lava shot out of the volcano, falling within five feet of Keegin. No second warning became necessary. The crust where they walked was so hot that it burned through the shoes. Keegin also visited Pompeii and saw the ruins of the Atlantic City of that day.

He next went to Florence for a week. This city he enjoyed more than any other in Italy. Glimpses into galleries, libraries and churches seemed all too short to him. On New Year's Day he witnessed a Fascisti demonstration which culminated in the burning of the plants of two opposition newspapers.

Venice came next, which, so Keegin asserts, is a beautiful city not because of its canals but in spite of them. They were filthy and smelly and Keegin became firmly impressed with the fact that joy riding in a gondola holds few attractions. Following Venice came two days in Milan and then back to Geneva and to work.

The conference was resumed but again ran into a stalemate. Selfish interests on the part of countries trafficking in narcotics prevented any satisfactory agreement and while some progress was made the conference finally ended with its chief benefit resulting in the attention of the world being more definitely centered on the importance of the narcotic problem.

In the opportunity to witness the collaboration of leading personages from so many different nations, in contacts made and in gaining a new outlook on international problems, Keegin feels that his was a most valuable experience. He is a graduate of Dartmouth with the class of 1925 and has taken an active part in the work of New Hampshire Alpha. He is now living in Washington, D. C., and acting as secretary to Justice Sidons of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia.

Is fraternity judgment infallible? If you think so, try this one: Justice Willis Van Devanter of the Supreme Court of the United States originally became a Sigma Chi. Afterwards he was dismissed and became a member of Beta Theta Pi. Again: the Amherst fraternities couldn't see Calvin Coolidge as a freshman or sophomore. Then, as a junior, Phi Gamma Delta placed a seemingly doubtful okey on him and made him a member of their fraternity. Is the case of Coolidge one of student development eventually making him an eligible, or poor judgment of the Amherst fraternities during the President's early years?

Vice President Charles G. Dawes this month addressed the national convention of Alpha Sigma Phi held in Washington, D. C., according to newspaper dispatches.

Personal Inclinations Versus Fraternity Principles

BY W. H. EASTMAN

Grand President

WE have labored unceasingly in an endeavor to put ourselves in a strong financial position and to create a system of financial control which would insure the stability of the fraternity in the future. The alumni and the undergraduates have worked hand in hand, exhibiting a splendid spirit of co-operation and teamwork even at great sacrifice on the part of those who have borne the brunt of the burden.

We have joined hands in a common endeavor to improve the scholastic standing of the undergraduate groups and to develop and improve the cultural side of our individual members. We have striven to build up our chapters from an athletic standpoint, thus developing the individual physically. Briefly, we have created an individual membership of men of lofty ideals and seriousness of purpose.

Yet, in many cases we lack, as individuals, that finer sense of moral responsibility which molds our conduct and places the welfare of the fraternity above the private inclination of the man. There is great need of more men who can see the reputation of the fraternity outshining their own personal desire to take a drink or otherwise indulge themselves.

Our alumni comprise a group of approximately ten thousand which is growing at the rate of nearly a thousand per year. This group comprises men in all walks of life. There are men engaged in practically every business and profession. Some of these men have been out in the world nearly a quarter of a century and have become seasoned to the temptations of our modern social atmosphere, yet there are those belonging to the older group who have forgotten completely the significance of the ritualistic work of the fraternity. This group even though small it may be, is swayed by evils of the present social era and instead of setting a good example for the younger alumni and undergraduates, in many instances, satisfies its own desires, regardless of the effect such action may have upon the fraternity.

The younger group of alumni, like the older group, comprises men of unusual qualities; men who have a high regard for the ritualistic teachings of the fraternity. Yet there are in this group of unseasoned men those who selfishly conspire to satisfy their own personal inclinations regardless of the ill effect it may have upon the fraternity.

The undergraduate group also has well balanced men who are not swayed by personal desire but who forego what might appear to some to be personal satisfaction in order that the fraternity ideals may be maintained. In this group of immature men we are sure to find those who lack that power of will to direct their own actions at times when the reputation of the fraternity is at stake.

There seems to be a wide variance in opinion as to what constitutes lawlessness, yet the rules of proper conduct of members of our fraternity are very clearly defined. The lack of governmental enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment has no doubt created much lawlessness on the part of individual members of society. But regardless of individual inclinations we must recognize the law of the land and the fraternity laws and code of honor which govern our actions as fraternity men.

Drinking, gambling, and licentiousness are a serious menace to the moral stability of our social structure. We as fraternity men should conduct ourselves in such a way that we may justify the existence of our fraternity in the modern educational system. Each member of the fraternity should so conduct himself that his personal inclinations be sacrificed in order that the name of the fraternity might stand untarnished in the eyes of the public. Every gathering of the fraternity, regardless of its purpose, should be so conducted that no criticism of an adverse character may arise.

We may build fine homes to house our chapters; we may stabilize our finances and create endowments; we may build a physical framework which meets every need, yet we have accomplished nothing unless we mold into the lives of each of our members an impress of the ritualistic teachings of our fraternity.

Delaware Alpha Men "Walk Out" In Election Protest

ALKING out" of the meeting of the student body and withdrawing the names of all Sig Eps as candidates for office was Delaware Alpha's protest against an asserted combination to elect certain candidates who would otherwise not be the choice of the student body for office. In leaving, the Delaware chapter handed to the chairman of the meeting a written statement in which they charged that certain organizations had combined for the purpose of dividing political spoils and defeating other candidates not members of the combination irrespective of merit or past service rendered.

A committee of investigation was appointed by the president of the student council which made an informal investigation. Their finding while nominally adverse to the Delaware Alpha chapter, essentially sustained the charges made. The committee found that no evidence was presented, other than heresy, of a combination or organizations and inasmuch as Delaware Alpha had charged a combination of organizations rather than of individuals, proof of their charges technically failed. But it is significant that the same committee concluded their findings with the admonition: "we would recommend . . . the promulgation through the fraternities of the idea that group interests in favor of any particular candidate will not be tolerated." Which is like unto saying, "We find you not guilty but don't let it occur again."

The action of Delaware Alpha has resulted in their withdrawal from student politics for a year or so. But it has probably served to purify Delaware politics and the Sig Eps at that institution feel that their fight for untrammelled elections has been for the best interests of their alma mater.

Cross, Colorado Beta, Takes Charge Of Legion Americanization Work

FRANK C. Cross, Colorado Beta, who for some time has been professor of economics and English at the Colorado School of Mines and instructor of evening classes for training in naturalization held in Denver, Colo., has been appointed by James Drain, national commander of the American Legion, as chairman of the Americanization committee of the Legion and assumed his duties about the first of July.

Commander Drain became interested in Cross' work with aliens when he visited in Denver last winter and was so impressed with the quality of work done that upon the resignation of the former chairman, Garland W. Powell, who became associated with the Woodrow Wilson Memorial College, he appointed Cross to take his place. The latter, with his family, left for Indianapolis, Ind., where he will have his office, the latter part of June.

Asked his plans for the work Cross made the following statement: "An attempt will be made to obtain closer co-ordination between the national, state and local departments of Americanization. In addition I will endeavor to establish and encourage associations of naturalized citizens, which will continue to stimulate interest in things American after the newly naturalized citizen has passed his examination, to foster an Americanism section in the departments of education, and to enlist the patriotic societies in giving all possible aid to those who contemplate becoming naturalized."

Sigma Alpha Epsilon headquarters is in Evanston, Ill., where the national office is housed in a "shrine" owned by the fraternity. There all of its records are under protection and it seems to be accumulating a collection of historical relics of the fraternity of great value. The latest addition to the collection is some furniture owned by the late President McKinley, one of their honored members.

At Illinois the Acacia fraternity, at a banquet in honor of Father John A. O'Brien, chaplain of the Catholic students in that institution, presented Father O'Brien with a gold Knights of Columbus pin. The presentation was made by the president of Acacia.

We are looking for a senior member of this fraternity with the record of having never missed a class. Is it an extinct species?

A senior stood on a railroad track,
The train was coming fast,
The train got off the railroad track
And let the senior pass.

COLORADO ALPHA has a rushing idea that should bear fruit this fall. At the close of the school year the chapter issued a twenty-four page brochure ostensibly dedicated to its senior class but bearing a great deal of information cleverly designed to whet the interest of a prospective rushee. The booklet is bound with an attractive imitation leather cover printed in gold. The inside is profusely illustrated with cuts of the house, the chapter, and each of the four classes, together with individual pictures of the seniors with a half page devoted to the work and activities of each. A page is devoted to the six sport captains of the chapter, two pages to an analysis of the chapter's activities and several pages describe the fraternity system, our fraternity policies and our national organization. It is a "quality" pamphlet throughout and should build good will for Colorado Alpha wherever it is read.

GLEN M. RUBY, Nebraska Alpha, who for some years has held the post of chief geologist of the Marland Oil Company with headquarters at Denver, Colo., has broken into the literary limelight—so far as Marland officers and employes are concerned. Not long since, Ruby, in company with two or three other officers of the Marland company, set sail down the Colorado River in a small motor boat in search of recreation and adventure. The recreation went aglimmering but they experienced adventure aplenty when many miles down the canyon bound river they had engine trouble which eventually resulted in the engine and gasoline blowing up and the boat being so badly burned it sank. Upon their return to civilization Ruby began a serial, now running in the "Marland News," house organ of that company, a gripping narrative of their adventure. The serial, at the time this is written, being unfinished we are unable to advise the reader how Ruby and his party escaped from the river and canyons. The adventure, which is told under the interesting head of "Adrift on the Desert," and which Ruby at the outset stated surpassed any exploit one might head of in these present days, fully lives up to the author's promise. In addition, it would be hard to state whether the story abounds in straight narrative or in humor.

PURCHASING AGENT of the Packard Motor Company is now the position held by James H. Marks, Michigan Alpha, following several years connection with the company in work of an engineering character. He graduated from the University of Michigan in 1908 as a mechanical engineer following which he served for several years as superintendent of buildings and grounds at the university in which work he had charge of considerable construction work. In 1916 he joined the Packard company, his faithful service being somewhat recently rewarded by his promotion to purchasing agent. His home is in Detroit where he is a member of the Detroit Alumni Chapter.

CLYDE VER BECK is one of those few unfortunate brothers who never attend a chapter reunion. In his case, however, it is not because he wouldn't if such an opportunity presented itself. The reason is that his chapter, Ohio Beta, is no more and he has become perforce a member of the fraternity at large without further attachment. He was recently reported in from Arkansas Alpha, however, whence he met all of the members of that chapter who were not isolated under a quarantine regulation. A member of the class of 1907 at Wittenberg College, he left in his junior year to take a job on the Washington Post. Since then Helena Mont., Savannah, Ga., Montgomery and Gadsden, Ala., and Fort Smith, Ark., have claimed him as a resident. In the latter place he at present is telegraph and makeup editor of the Southwest American.

THROUGH Bill Paisley, Arkansas Alpha, comes to the JOURNAL some interesting reminiscences of Clyde Ver Beck, Ohio Beta, mentioned above. Ver Beck, it seems, in the early days had the Conclave habit—as many of us have acquired it since. He attended the first Conclave held in Philadelphia when the entire Conclave stayed at the chapter house. The break-up of that Conclave was marked in his memory by the first news of the San Francisco earthquake disaster. He related Billy Phillips' dismay at the Chicago Conclave when, returning to the room where the secret paraphernalia of the fraternity had been locked for safe keeping after much discussion as to its disposal, they found the room open and in charge of the chamber maids and Billy's excited exclamation which has been deleted by the censor. Ver Beck was one of the installing officers when charters were granted Alabama Alpha, Georgia Alpha and North Carolina Gamma.

IN 1919 Detroit became possessed of a city college in connection with its central high school—an idea that is becoming popular in the larger Michigan cities. Heading the political science department in that college is James Herbert Russell, Michigan Alpha, an honorary member initiated in 1916 and a graduate of the University of Michigan with the class of 1903. From 1915 to 1918, inclusive, he was on the Michigan faculty where he also took his master's and doctor's degree. Brother Russell went to Detroit City College at the time of its organization and with the recent creation of the political science department as a separate department he assumed charge of that work.

GUS RAU, Kansas Gamma, lays claim to fame, among other things, as the organizer of a new fraternity. Feeling the inadequacy of the multitude of Greek-letter organizations to fill the existing need, he gathered about himself a collection of Kansas University civil engineering students and made them over into a new fraternity. We are not advised of the name of the organization.

FORMER SECRETARY R. L. Mutz of the Des Moines Alumni Chapter, who later moved to New York City with the Oh Henry! people (Williamson Candy Company) has been transferred, during the course of the summer, to Oakland, Calif., where he is in charge of all Oh Henry! activities on the Pacific coast. His address is Fifth and Kirkham streets, Oakland. He recently registered disappointment in the JOURNAL when he found that the San Francisco alumni did not hold periodical luncheons as stated in the JOURNAL. We shall have to ask the San Francisco men to get in touch with Mutz and tell him themselves was ist los.

A FRESHMAN attached to Tennessee Alpha was the winner of the highest honor for which freshmen at Tennessee are eligible. Every year the Scarabean Senior Society of that school gives a fifty-dollar scholarship to the freshman who, in the opinion of themselves and the president of the university, is the most representative freshman in the class. This past year Ralph W. Youngstedt was the winner of the scholarship. His home is Maywood, Ill., but native Tennessees brothers assert that he has made a good southerner. His activities have largely been along editorial lines.

AT THE END of the college year Iowa Gamma published a chapter directory in convenient booklet form that has been distributed among all members of the chapter. The residence, occupation and date of graduation of each member is given. In addition it is stated in each case whether the member is married.

GRAND VICE PRESIDENT A. P. Dippold enjoys the honor—and has since last spring—of serving as president of the Chicago Hyde Park Lions Club. In May he represented his den as delegate to the Illinois state convention and in June he was the delegate to the international convention at Cedar Point, Ohio. He has also recently been elected a director of the Illinois Society of Architects.

A SILVER CUP is annually awarded to the best all around athlete in the three Tennessee institutions, Vanderbilt, University of Tennessee and Sewanee, by the Porter Clothing Company of Nashville, Tenn. Incidentally, Mr. Porter, the head of that firm, is the father of several Sig Eps sons. The winner of the cup at Sewanee proved to be George Barker, New York Beta, captain of the Sewanee football team this fall, who is mentioned elsewhere in this issue as is Brown, Tennessee Alpha's star athlete, who won the Porter cup at the University of Tennessee. Two out of the three cups offered! It appears that Sig Eps are doing things in Tennessee. Evidently all we need is a chapter at Vanderbilt to make it a clean sweep.

WALTER DENT SMITH, Delaware Alpha, manager of the Delaware Safety Council, during the past summer participated in the preparation of the report of the National Safety Council on public accidents for the year 1924. The report was framed in New York, those engaged in drafting it being Dr. Louis I. Dublin, statistician for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; H. P. Stellwagen, and W. J. Cox of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters; Colonel James Sinke, police commissioner of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Brother Smith. The report will be presented to the National Safety Council in Cleveland in late September and is of importance because of the fact that it is the basis for the expenditure of more than one million dollars annually in public safety work.

HERE is a sister with the proper spirit: Marion Smithers Orcutt, whose husband is Clifton A. Orcutt, New Hampshire Alpha, sent in the latter's life membership fee saying that her husband was too busy to attend to it but that she wanted to make sure that he become a life member. Alumni auxiliaries might take notice of this. The Orcutts live at 80 Maiden Lane, New York City, where he is an adjuster with the firm of Marsh and McLennan. They have four children ranging in age from a year and a half to eight years.

FRED COLBY, erstwhile pilot of Nebraska Alpha and now an insurance salesman in Lincoln, Nebr., by way of a profitable vacation spent the summer with the Redpath Harrison Chautauqua playing trombone with a musical company consisting of a pianist, two cornetists and two trombonists. Colby, who is a trombonist of considerable experience, was in charge of the company. The itinerary of his company led through Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky.

J. B. WEBSTER, P. H. D., Harvard, and from Virginia Alpha, is one of the outstanding educators in China today. He is professor of education at the Shanghai College, the largest college in the Orient. His leading work, "Religious Education in China," was published in 1923. This book is considered by critics to be a very excellent survey of conditions in China. At the present time Brother Webster is making an educational tour of the Orient. He still takes a very active part in fraternity affairs and is always to be found present in Shanghai when the fraternities get together.

H. A. LUCKER, New York Beta, has been in the Orient for some ten years. He first went over as an attorney, but since has branched out into other enterprises. Here are a few of his titles: vice president of the China-American Trading Company, Ltd., president, American Chinese Co., Ind. and vice president of the China American Engineering Corporation. Brother Lucker was recently elected to the Rotary Club and is known by no other title than 'Ansome. He has been located at Tientsin, China, all this time. He plans on visiting the U. S. A. some time during next year.

LEAVE IT to California to be everywhere. S. S. Kapp, California Alpha, is very handily taking care of the social activities in and around Shanghai, China. This brother has the habit of entertaining the brothers when they drop into Shanghai. Kapp is manager of the Zimmerman & Zimmerman Company, exporting and importing firm. He will take a visit to the States some time in the near future and is planning on returning via the Suez Canal.

EXCOGITATIONS

BY ED

This is the time of year when fraternity editors begin reaching for their typewriters and framing platitudes about "getting off to a good start," "hitting the ball hard at the beginning" and kindred themes.

That is all right. It is a good thing. In times gone by I have indulged freely myself in this indoor sport. The only trouble is that those in need of such advice never read that section of the magazine. Generally speaking (I say with fair assurance) those with lagging scholastic interest neither care to devote much thought to increasing their efficiency as students nor would they agree with the suggestions given. Usually they are defenders of the cram-session system: "learn your semester's work in the last week."

Those who really read these exhortations to apply themselves diligently at the beginning of the year are largely those who would do so irrespective of such advice. But perhaps they might be reminded, to good advantage, that many of their brothers are border-line students who can either be made fairly good students or failures, depending upon the character of the influence that sways them. Encouragement, desirable study conditions within the chapter house, study routine, frequent investigation of scholastic standing—these are things the lack of which may breed a parcel of failures to take the fraternity to the bottom of the scholarship list. They are likewise things that, properly employed, may bring honor to the chapter for its scholastic excellence.

So I make this suggestion—and I make it believing that these lines will be read almost exclusively by the better class of students: from the first put your chapter house in order for study. Bring your influence to bear to end the scholastic debacles that, at some time in the past, has beset every chapter. You owe it to the fraternity to do so. And you owe it, as a fraternal obligation, to lend encouragement for successful work to those members who are drifting in the stream of college affairs.

Speaking of scholarship—and we generally are, for certain reasons left to the reader—how often have you heard one of the sub-standard students speak with all due authority after this fashion: "This book worm stuff is the bunk. Take a fellow who has his nose in a book all the time and when he gets out of school he can't earn a living." The particular mode of expression has unlimited variations but the thought is always the same.

In answer to these custodians of the "last word" on scholarship comes the report of a Connecticut school, Wesleyan University, not long since made public. To determine whether good scholarship is a blessing or a curse this institution examined the records of about 2,000 graduates over a period of some fifty years.

Fewer than a third were "honor" men in scholarship. To determine their success in life, the judgment of their fellows was used as a basis. Fair enough, wouldn't you say? It was found that of the 146 students of highest rank, one-half had attained distinction; of the 450 next in scholastic rank, one-third; and of the remainder, one-tenth. In other words, the upper fifth of the various classes for a half century had produced as many successful men as the lower four-fifths.

The student who is zealous in his work may be assured that he is four times as likely to make a success in his life work as those who are indifferent. That is what the Wesleyan survey tells us. And I believe those who have watched students over a good many years will confirm this out of their own experience.

There is a school of thought among psychologists today who despair for the future of mankind because of the quality of its thinking. The crowd mind is an entity much inferior to the respective individual minds comprising the crowd. But individual thought is submerged in the rolling tide of crowd or mob mind. The latter is dominating thought in a progressive scale, stifling individuality and is sounding the death knell of creative thought. Such is the indictment drawn by the students of social psychology.

With the humility of a lay man pronouncing judgment upon the opinion of the scientist, I cannot but believe there is more than modicum of truth in this view. Our chief concern is with conditions as we find them in the colleges or among college people and in these walks, too, I believe we may see the encroachments of crowd-mindedness.

Among the non-essentials, consider the vogue in clothes among college men. With the advent of a new style, be it sensible or the contrary, it is adopted almost as a unit. One fears to be different. Trousers widened at the bottom and a narrow bottom could not be found on the campus. Some few started discarding hats and despite a deeply entrenched custom of head protection bare heads became the order.

The same is true of usages in speech and conduct. A phrase is taken up and it travels like the wind. Instead of giving thought to elegant, precise or pungent expression individuals adopt these catch phrases and strain thought and rhetoric to use them frequently.

How often do fraternities dare differ from the others? They rush one candidate because he has dates with several others. They give an expensive ball because some other organizations have thrown money and judgment to the winds. They labor industriously to standardize their members and curb the freakish tendencies of their "odd lots." Under the guise of beneficial "policies" they dictate what their memberships shall think with reference to this, that or the other matter of fraternity conduct, discipline or operation.

Like mindedness is avidly sought rather than avoided. Individuality is studiously discouraged. That something "is being done" is the criterion, the ne plus ultra. Virtually the whole of extra-curricular activity is a process of standardization and like mindedness that not only discourages but will permit of but precious little individuality and independence of thought.

Even in the class room there is all too little encouragement of individuality. What one shall think rather than how to think is too often taught with a resultant suppression of creative thought.

But we are making progress. In the realms of science we are adopting the true scholastic spirit of inquiry. We are applying the scientific method of approach to problems with more and more disregard for the conclusions to which our investigations may lead us. No one has objected to such approach to scientific questions largely, perhaps, because there is no danger of established institutions and customs being uprooted by revolutionary discoveries. Eventually, we may hope, a like inquiry within the realms of the social sciences will be permitted without hysteria and intellectual nervousness on the part of defenders of existing faiths, political, economic, social and, indeed, religious.

There is mob mindedness in our colleges in generous measure. There is sufficient of it, I believe, to alarm those who are anxious to preserve the quality of individuality in men and women. It is the tendency in all walks of life and colleges simply fall into line, possibly to a less degree than elsewhere but to too great a degree for intellectual health. Within the cloister of the college, isolated from most direct influences of the material world, it would seem that here of all places where reason presumably prevails and values are most carefully weighed would we find freedom from the opinion of the herd. Alas, this is only measurably true. Will there be return to individualism eventually? Personally, I think so. It would be a gloomy outlook for the progress of civilization were we to continue the present trend.

Readers of this "culyum" may recall in an issue a few months back I proposed an organization to be known as the Benevolent and Protective Order of Alpha Chi Omega Husbands, membership in which should be limited to that class of our members who are either husbands or near-husbands of Alpha Chis.

If we may judge from the Alpha Chi Omega Lyre the attitude of that sorority is favorable to our organization. But, of course, they may be "baiting" us. Anyway, I have a number of cards and letters that indicate that there is a considerable number of our members who are in favor of it even if no one else is.

Graham Fly of D. C. Alpha is fernist us. He casts his lot with the Pi Phi boys and will not listen to reason. It seems that I shall have to defer his conversion to the idea until I can debate the matter with him in person. Incidentally, let me remark this: it is astounding the hold these Phi Phis do have upon certain members of the male species. Of course, I have no objection but I can't help wonder how they do it?

In the last issue of the JOURNAL I ventured the opinion that despite the request that historians consult the issue of September, 1924, and model their chapter activities after it, getting them in early, we should have a healthy crop of non-conformists and delinquents.

In proof of the assertion that I am a good guesser I offer this evidence: only two chapter activities lists received were in form to be submitted to the printer without innumerable corrections; only twenty-eight out of fifty-two chapters submitted any activities list.

Now, you may understand the tremendous dental bills of fraternity editors occasioned by the gentle practice of gnashing the teeth in rage.

Upon recently recommending a rushee to one of our chapters I had occasion to consider the possibility of the chapter's refusal to pledge him. He is a likely lad that fulfills all of the usual requirements on the part of a rushee. In my opinion he would strengthen any chapter. What, then, should be my attitude if the chapter sees him in a different guise?

Well, at first blush one might feel it his duty to get peeved. It is rather customary to accord difference of opinion with ire. And when it appears that a desirable man is being denied the privilege of membership in our fraternity as well as the fraternity denied his talents one feels the more license to grow indignant if he is turned down while some of the ever-present "foul balls" are taken.

But upon second thought I was forced to concede to myself that I should abide the judgment of the chapter. If my rushee be refused I shall still deem the chapter in error. But to err is but human. It is also customary. And if we grew embittered toward one for his every error none of us would be on speaking terms with any one else.

The lad whom I recommended may be thrown in the discard by reason of the whim of some one man. He may be so unfortunate as to get his tie to the lee of one ear or his affectation, or non-affectation, of garters may put him thumbs down with some fellow with a black ball at hand. Any one of innumerable accidents may serve to disqualify him from consideration and his place may be filled with one who will ever remain a nonentity. But that is the chance that one must run. We have all run it. And we have all been equally indiscriminate. It is proper that we should urge increasing discrimination in choice of members, and active members should heed that advice, but mistakes must be taken with good humor and spirit. It should, above all, not lessen alumni co-operation. Ours is a democratic organization in which an individual may wield great influence but not for the world would we have it otherwise. And so while I hope my protege may be pledged, if he fails to attain that honor I'll try to get the chapter an even better rushee next time.

The Grand Vice President has sent in a clipping of interest with an observation that should be passee. Mrs. Dippold in casually looking over the "Lost and Found" column in the Chicago Tribune had her attention drawn to an advertisement in these words: "Fraternity Pin—Lost—Loop. Heart shaped, set with pearls. M. F. Adolph on bk. Rewd. Adolph, 350 N. Clark, Fran. 4080."

Upon his wife calling it to his attention Dip called the advertiser ascertaining that the pin was, as he had suspected, a Sigma Phi Epsilon badge, owned by Miss Anna Mae Adolph, the sister of M. F. Adolph, Illinois Alpha, deceased.

The fact that our badge could so effectively be described in so few words and its identity so definitely established greatly impressed Dip. "The particular thing that impressed me most about this advertisement," he writes me, "is that the Sigma Phi Epsilon badge can be described in just two words, 'heart shaped.' I doubt if there is any other badge for any other fraternity, lodge or organization that can be described in just two words and not ever mention the name of the organization. Even the Masonic badge requires three words, 'Square and compass.' . . . It is not necessary to use our name but just say 'heart shaped' and it immediately identifies our emblem. . . . I have been told that some years ago certain of our members wanted to change the design of our badge but just see the wonderful advantage we have in its present design. And the older our fraternity becomes the more apparent is the distinctiveness of our badge—something that should be highly prized."

Cornelius A. Tilghman, Delaware Alpha, writes inquiring why it would not be a good plan for the fraternity to issue maps of the United States showing where each chapter of the United States is located. It would be, he suggests, a good means of familiarizing members with the location of our chapters.

Not a bad idea. But why should not every chapter provide itself with a good map forthwith and after marking each city in which we have a chapter post it somewhere within the chapter house? This could be done with but little expense whereas it costs money to have maps printed to order.

It is not a new thing for crooks to invade fraternity ranks. It is just growing more popular. Virtually all fraternities are victimized off and on by the unscrupulous.

If this practice is to be guarded against it is necessary that the chapters exercise more care than they have in the past. In the first place, not every man claiming to be a member of this fraternity is an initiate. No man claiming to be a member should, unless indisputable proofs are had, be permitted to sit in a fraternity meeting until he has satisfied the chapter of his membership by his knowledge of the ritual.

His name should also be checked up on the membership rolls. The September issues of the JOURNAL bring the directory down to date.

Then, fully as important as the foregoing in protecting the fraternity at large, is the necessity of expelling from the membership those who have proved themselves unscrupulous and advising the Grand Secretary so that the name may be stricken from the rolls. Incidentally, whenever the chapter is advised of expulsions it should show the name stricken on the directory.

Occasionally crooks become members. Nothing, perhaps, can guard against it in all instances. It is most unfortunate when we find we have conferred membership upon the unworthy, particularly when the fraternity's wholesome influence is of no avail. But once recognized the chapter should deal with the unprincipled by expulsion, advising the Grand Secretary of the action taken.

In the November issue will appear the usual all-Sig Ep football selection for 1925. Places on this team will be awarded on the basis of player records up to, and including, the games played on November 14th. Chapters might to good advantage be saving newspaper comments on the work of members who warrant consideration. Detailed instructions will be mailed historians early in November with qualification blanks for entering players for consideration. It would profit some chapters if they took pains to see that their historian sent his qualification sheets to the editor on the day requested. Last year at least two chapters having players who should certainly have made the all-Sig Ep team failed to qualify their men until two weeks after the closing date when the matter was settled and the selection printed.

Despite all notice to historians, however, I predict that some football stars, deserving a place on our "all" team, will be denied a place by reason of the carelessness and inattention of some of those who should attend to the matter. But, then, it is all in a life time, I suppose,

CLIFFORD B. SCOTT, Editor
O'Neill, Nebraska

There are those who profess to be alarmed at what they designate as irreligious tendencies on the part of college people. They have been in the process of growing alarmed for a considerable time but have only reached the climax with the Tennessee evolution entertainment at Dayton. These good people will continue to suffer alarm. They will never recover from it for not in their time will we have religions, churches and dogmas acceptable to all college people. The spirit of scientific inquiry too widely extends among intelligent people to permit them to have faith in outworn dogma and irrational superstitions.

It is true that there is a certain cleavage from the church on the part of college people. But curiously enough the greatest disaffection is on the part of freshmen, the next greatest on the part of sophomores with the two upper classes attending church with about the same frequency. The real cleavage, however, is that of belief. In this the higher classes lead. They find less and less place for denominational differences and for insistence upon highly attenuated doctrinal distinctions.

The fact of the matter is, that college people are rationalizing their religion—much to the dismay of the fundamentalists. They are Christians—the overwhelming majority—as the result of having found rational answers to a multitude of perplexing religious inquiries. Theirs is not the blind faith so admired by the fundamentalists but a faith that can justify itself out of the material with which intelligence is constructed—reason.

This is a marvelous process that is going on. It is substituting religion for dogma and reason for superstition. It is giving religion a meaning. And meanwhile there are the oppositionists who cry out in the darkness. They cling to their dogma in preference to religion in its wider aspects. They mumble their rituals concerning brotherly love, peace and understanding, meanwhile crying out with all the venom that intolerance can summon against those who have found a religion in which they can have faith. In all ages the dogmatists have been the persecutors, the intolerants, while at the same time professing the gentler things of the spirit. And so, no doubt, it will continue until reason replaces ignorance and the social concept mellows heightened individualism.

Colleges will probably remain under fire during the pendency of the present squabble over evolution. It will require many, many months to secure a final adjudication of the constitutionality of the Tennessee law and during that time evolution will be a bone of popular contention. Needless to say, it will be discussed more widely than intelligently. As a whole, the people have little more knowledge of evolution than before the wrangle started.

They have acquired a few catchwords and phrases, a few superficial and specious arguments, but they haven't grasped the structure of the doctrine nor do they have the materials, the evidence and all of the minutiae of detail that goes to give a proper evaluation of the doctrine. Rather, they have attached themselves to some spokesman on one side or the other and accepting his declaration have without further thought become a "pro" or a "con."

The "cons" seem to be in the majority and if the Tennessee law should be declared valid we might expect to see similar laws stoutly advocated in many other states. Some would pass. There are enough people in the world, including legislators, who believe in teaching what to think rather than how to think to pass such bills. But it is inconceivable that the Tennessee law should be upheld. While a point of view will largely determine that question there is plenty of legal precedent for declaring it unconstitutional.

In the meantime the evolutionary "ferninsters" will be sniping at the colleges and their biological courses. There will be an open season in which the sanctimonious will go gunning for asserted atheism in the colleges. Science will be seen "proselyting" from the churches. Students will be viewed in all stages of the process of going to hell. And in the melee let it not be thought that the fraternity may not be subjected to more or less "pitiless publicity."

Surveys have shown that church attendance among the colleges is inversely proportional to the financial means of students. Those who are wholly self-supporting attend the most frequently; those partially self-supporting follow closely behind. Those whose parents put them through school in a moderate standard come next and, far lower than any of the other classes, those who enjoy a luxurious life in college attend church least often.

The fraternity is pretty largely made up of the two latter classes although far from exclusively. That these members do not attend church so frequently is not a fault chargeable to the fraternity so much as to the economic class. Still, the fraternity is an administrative agency. It wields an influence and control over its members which without dictation within the realm of individual freedom might well encourage a greater interest in things of the spirit.

Students have reasons for not attending church. Not all fail to attend by reason of laziness. Indeed, a very large number find themselves at odds with what is preached to them from the pulpit. They dislike being intellectually patronized. They refuse to listen to ministerial mediocrity. Yet, somewhere in most college towns there is at least one minister who speaks the language and the thought of the college student and it is this minister who will more and more attract them.

College people are not less religious than heretofore. They are simply less superstitious. They are coming to believe that dogma should be accepted with not only faith but upon reason and if reason is at war with dogma it is unworthy of faith. They realize that mankind is the constant victim of survival beliefs; that we are uncritical of long established doctrine and that it should be subjected to the same scrutiny as is such modern doctrine as evolution and relativity. They believe there is not so much wrong with religion as with man's lack of success in understanding, interpreting and applying it. As such they are becoming the true religionists. For religion is truth and in the scientific quest for truth man is approaching closer to religion than ever before.

The CLIPPING BUREAU

A NEW FRATERNITY CENSUS

William C. Levere

(In the Record of Sigma Alpha Epsilon)

One of the most significant fraternity studies of recent times is a comparison of the census of Greek Letter societies taken two years ago and one now made. It reveals that it is a normal condition for college fraternities to increase and grow, even as all other living things do. The first twenty fraternities enumerated in the census of 1923 then had 1247 chapters. Today these same twenty number 1292 chapters, an increase of 45.

As a further illustration, if the last twenty chapters of the earlier census are taken, it is found that in 1923 these twenty had 231 chapters, while now they count up 272 chapters.

To look at it from another angle, of the fifty-three fraternities reported two years ago, sixteen have increased in number of chapters since then, three have stood still, and one has lost a chapter.

The results of the recent census are here presented:

It was contended two years ago that if the smaller fraternities were encouraged to grow and answer the appeal for fraternity fellowship which comes from colleges so crowded with fine material that much of it lost out, because the chapters were already overcrowded, that at least to an extent the move for more new fraternities would be unnecessary. These 86 new chapters have added an estimated increase to the fraternity world of at least 2500 men. The contention has been justified and the manner in which the fraternities responded to the suggestion, which appeared in practically every fraternity magazine published, has been an amazing justification of the appeal.

While the number of chapters has changed in all cases but one, in the leading ten fraternities it is interesting to see that their relative positions are unchanged except in the cases of the last two. Phi Gamma Delta, which has ranked ninth with sixty-five chapters, is now in the tenth place with 66 chapters, while Lambda Chi Alpha has taken ninth place with an increase of five chapters. Sigma Alpha Epsilon, which led with ninety-four chapters two years ago, now leads with ninety-five chapters. Kappa Sigma, which was second then with ninety-two chapters, retains its place with ninety-four chapters. Phi Delta Theta is still third with an increase in its number of chapters from ninety to ninety-three. Delta Tau Delta has had the largest growth of the first eight fraternities, its list increasing from sixty-six to seventy-one.

No matter what one believes about the advisability of fraternity increase, these figures furnish a fascinating study and lead to many avenues of conjecture. Everyone will agree on one thing and that is that the dear old college fraternity system has not lost its virility or power to maintain itself.

FRATERNITIES DEMAND GENUINE EDITORS

Professionalism is gradually coming into its own in the college fraternity magazine field, if the increasing number of college trained journalists editing such publications is any criterion.

Among Sigma Delta Chis so engaged are: Charles A. Mitchell (Nebraska), editor of The Tomahawk of Alpha Sigma Phi; T. Hawley Tapping (Michigan), editor of The Triad of Acacia; William D. Boutwell (Illinois), editor of The Logos of Alpha Kappa Lambda; Frank W. Scott (Illinois), editor of The Palm of Alpha Tau Omega; Robert Mason (Ohio State), editor of the Delta Chi Quarterly; Frank C. Ferguson (Maine), editor of The Caduceus of Kappa Sigma; Bruce H. McIntosh (DePauw) business manager of The Purple, Green and Gold of Lambda Chi Alpha; Ben Kartman (Illinois), editor of the Phi Epsilon Pi Quarterly; Grayson L. Kirk (Miami), editor of The Laurel of Phi Kappa Tau; K. D. Pulcipher (Illinois), associate editor of The Shield and Diamond of Pi Kappa Alpha; Chester W. Cleveland (Illinois), editor of The Sigma Chi Quarterly; Clifford B. Scott (Nebraska), editor of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Journal; Chester R. Anderson (Illinois), editor of the Sigma Phi Sigma Monad; Leland F. Petersen (Minnesota), editor of The Teke of Tau Kappa Epsilon; and George Macy (Columbia), editor of The Zeta Beta Tau Quarterly.—The Quill of Sigma Delta Chi.

SEATTLE ALUMNI CHAPTER

THE members of the Seattle Alumni

Chapter, for the most part have been taking a vacation for the summer months. Even so, some of the members have been on the job, for Washington Beta Chapter has now a new home. Frank Hamack and committee have been working all summer looking around for a suitable location. They finally decided to purchase the house and lot located at 4733 University Boulevard, a few steps north of the Sigma Nu house.

Seattle alumni are making arrangements for a house warming and party for the active members in their newly acquired home. Local alumni are very much pleased with the progress made by Washington Beta. This last year they won the "scholarship" cup for the greatest improvement; "Big" Stick" for the largest number of lettermen and second trophy in the intramural sports competition.

A number of marriages took place during the summer months. Here are those which we know about: Maynard Turner to Edris Bigelow Nathan Thompson to Peggy Padden; George DeSelle to Irma Beager Jack Edwards to Miss Olsen; and Arthur Kane to Monica Kaufer. All the brothers with the exception of Brother Kane, are residing in this city. Kane is for the present living in Port Angeles where he has charge of a construction project.

Julian Burroughs, Oregon Alpha, represented the Multnomah Athletic Club at the national and northwest A. A. U. swimming and diving meet. Burroughs won first honors in the diving events for the northwest.

O. E. Draper is spending his summer teaching at the University of Texas. The local chapter as well as the alumni chapter will be very glad when Brother Draper returns to Seattle.

Brother Ted Shawn and wife, Ruth St. Denis, and the Denishawn Dancers have made two appearances in Seattle this year. His last appearance was in the University of Washington stadium upon the largest outdoor stage in the world. On August 7th the group sailed for the Orient aboard the President Jefferson. They are planning to make their first stop at Yokohama where they will go to Tokio for a month's engagement at the Imperial Hotel.

Charles Smith, Washington Alpha, better known as "Jitney," took part in the Fourth of July marathon race. He was nosed out for first place only by inches. If one takes into consideration the fact that Smith has been away from the track for some seven years and then to come out and compete with the coast's best runners, he deserves a lot of praise. Smith won this event in 1921 and 1922.

Roy Matheson has been spending his vacation visiting his home in Alberta, Canada. We wonder if the brother will be the same when he returns from across the line.

Beverly Travis was up from Portland to spend his vacation at his home in Everett. Fortunately he was able to attend the Turner-Bigelow wedding, where he acted in the capacity of best man. Leave it to "Bevo" to be the first one in line.

Freeman Scharr, Washington Beta, also of Portland, has been taking short weekends visits to Seattle. Now that he has purchased a car he will probably make his visits more frequent.

Brother Luhr, Colorado Alpha, spent a greater share of the summer with us here in Seattle. During this time he was able to visit the Orient, Alaska and South America. Some vacation I would say.

CHICAGO ALUMNI CHAPTER

AND in the fall an alumni's fancy seriously turns to thoughts of football, dances and other fraternity festivities. In a brave attempt to solve the all important question for alumni organizations, "How can we get the alumni interested in alumni activities?" we in Chicago are going to try out a new scheme. The success of most alumni associations can be attributed to the undying efforts of one or two alumni who seem to have an inexhaustible supply of fraternity spirit and energy.

In an attempt to spread the burden we are going to set up a committee of six or eight of the more active and interested members to aid the officers in getting a good attendance at the meetings and functions. Each member of this committee will be given a list of six or eight members who are well known to him and it will be his job to see that those on his list are notified of meetings and furthermore to see that they come out. Of course, the officers of the association will have to check up on these committee members, but it will be much easier to follow up eight committeemen than attempt to keep in active touch with fifty or more members. We will report the results of our plan as the year progresses.

At the beginning of the season we will announce our complete plans for meetings and activities throughout the year and this list of events will appear on all literature sent to the members in order to constantly refresh their memories. The coming season will consist of the following events:

Usual Friday noon luncheons at the La Salle Hotel Dutch Grill.

Monthly meetings, the third Monday night of each month at the Jack o' Lantern Tea Room on Federal Street, between Jackson boulevard and Van Buren street.

Informal dance the latter part of November.

Informal dance the latter part of January.

The annual Interfraternity dinner, the evening of February 11.

Informal dance the early part of March.

Second annual Stag Banquet in lieu of the April monthly meeting.

The last monthly meeting for the season will be held in May at which time officers will be elected.

In order to get hold of the young alumni just out of college, we have lowered our dues to $1.00 to these young men for the first two years. The reason we changed the place of our monthly meetings was to secure a good dinner and a good place to meet at the lowest possible price. Our discussions during the past season have convinced us that the reason the young men stay away from alumni meetings is the cost of the dinners and luncheons. They are just getting a start and they do not feel that they get enough out of the meetings to justify the expense. Hence our change of meeting place.

One other feature we are going to try out this year is that of collecting dues. Last year we attempted to get our alumni acquainted with each other and thus get them interested and all dues collected were sent in voluntarily. However, we do not feel that a few loyal members should bear the expense of mailing monthly notices and other items for the benefit of the larger number who did not or would not voluntarily pay their dues. We propose to approach each member personally and endeavor to collect dues in order to carry on our activities.

I wish that some of the other alumni organizations would give us the benefit of their plans and methods in their regular chapter letters as well as the usual information about their members. See you some more.

—Clarence H. Freeark.

In Memoriam

RAYMOND SHERRICK

Raymond Sherrick, ex-Michigan Alpha, met death on July 20th while engaged in stunt flying at Milton Dam near Youngstown, Ohio, before a crowd of several thousand people. He was killed when his plane went into a nose dive at an altitude of about 2,500 feet.

Sherrick, who was a naval aviator during the war, had, with his brother, Leon Sherrick, an army flyer, been making flights each summer since leaving the service, although for the last two years he has taken to the air rather infrequently. He had just taken off, ascending to a height of 2,500 when he started a loop. His

Curtis Standard went into a spin from which he was unable to extricate himself and the plane fell like a bullet, completely demolishing it and mangling Sherrick's body.

He was married about two years ago to Miss Helen Paar of Canton, Ohio, where he lived at the time of his death. Besides his wife he is survived by his father and brother Leon Sherrick. He was a graduate of the University of Michigan with the class of 1922. Several years ago Sherrick crashed in an airplane but escaped serious injury when his plane fell into a tree.

BALFOUR BADGES

Throughout the country, on every college campus, the Fraternity man and woman proudly wear the emblems of Balfour Manufacture. It is by reason of their approval and keen appreciation that the L. G. Balfour Company today has become official jewelers to practically every Fraternity and Sorority in America.

We have the honor of serving your Fraternity as official jeweler. By permitting us to supply your requisites you are assured of Quality, Price and Service. Moreover, your fraternity insignia is protected and your National Fraternity derives direct revenues through royalties which would otherwise be dissipated among unauthorized jewelers without responsibility
